ROYAL NAVAL ASSOCIATION DELIVERS iPADS TO PEMBROKE HOUSE

Greenwich Hospital is delighted to be supporting the Royal Naval Association (RNA) in its Project Semaphore which is a project to provide 600 iPads and associated training to elderly Royal Navy and Royal Marine veterans to enable them to stay in touch with family and friends.

It was reported to Paul Quinn OBE, the General Secretary of RNA, that when the iPads were delivered, there was “A blend of excitement and bewilderment at Pembroke House. The Staff and Home Manager are also thrilled to be part of this exciting Project.”

If you know of a digitally isolated Naval veteran who could benefit from Project Semaphore please contact sharon@royalnavalassoc.com
